

Amdt. Dated Feb. 10, 2006

Reply to Office Action of Sept. 6, 2005

ABSTRACT

[Para 18] A swab is detailed which is formed of two components: a straight, flat, wide plastic body frame with a cutout at each end providing an offset length; and an absorbent material such as cotton or foam rubber, which is attached to each end of the body frame completing the swab construction. This design provides a safer and more versatile alternative to traditional swab design.